What are the teacher's strengths? (7 comments)

- Extremely engaging. - Allows the class to think about important global issues. Encourages everybody to speak up and frame their argument. - We even sent a letter to the UN, enclosed with our suggestions to amend the Human Rights Declaration, with our tutor's initiative. - Took the time to send us individually an evaluation on our overall progress, strengths and weaknesses.
- Clear, concise, willing to explain concepts fully and simply
- HE IS REALLY TALENTED IN TEACHING. He is very calm, controlled, knows what he's doing. He is creative in his teaching approach. Once, to challenge our content-grasp, he played a game with the class where we would be split into 4 groups and had to work as a group to come up with an answer. This challenged me to think on the spot about what was taught and was a good memory-recall task. He also simulated a model united nations meeting during the last class and this enabled us to have a n... MUN experience which was experiential learning at its finest. THIS TEACHER IS AWESOME! He's also really helpful and willing to see us for consultation to ensure we write better essays which fit his expectations.
- Innovative teaching styles - like the Brain Ring game from Russia. Great focus on the "why" we should care about the topic, with the letter to the UN.
- Raise great questions, guide students to discuss

- Giving a summary of the various arguments and lectures was very helpful. Tutorials are interesting.
- He is able to answer our questions, and facilitate discussions in tutorials very effectively, and often adds valuable insight to enhance our learning experience. He is also very encouraging.
